

David Taxman

David has 14 years of parking planning and transportation engineering experience. He has been a passionate advocate for reform in parking planning practices, spearheading efforts to include Transportation Demand Management (TDM) and Mobility Best Practices. He has published articles on parking issues, TDM, and privatization in several industry magazines, including Parking Today, Parking, and Government Finance

Review. David has also spoken at events hosted by the International Parking Institute, the National Parking Association (NPA), the Big Ten Parking Conference, the Parking Association of Virginia, and the Urban Land Institute. He has led parking and transportation studies for municipalities, universities, hospitals, private development, and other institutions. He was recently included in NPA's list of 40 under 40 in the parking industry.